Downtown drug bust nets 30

Crime. Cops lay 155 charges in raid after six-week drug investigation

MAURICE TOUGAS
maurice.tougas@metronews.ca

Complaints from downtown residents about increased drug activity and violence led to a massive police drug operation that resulted in 30 arrests and 155 charges being laid.

The six-week undercover operation, from mid-May to June, concentrated on a three-block radius along 101 Street between 103-106 avenues, an area known for open drug-dealing.

Acting Supt. Dave Berry described those arrested as being "bottom-level dealers who were preying on people who were trying to access services in that area." However, information obtained from the arrests led to a search warrant on an apartment outside the area, which Berry described as a primary source for drugs. Eight alleged drug dealers were arrested in the raid.

Of the 30 people arrested, 22 remain in custody while the remaining eight were released on bail under multiple conditions, including a ban on returning to the targeted area. Warrants have been issued for six others. Some of those arrested were already out on bail.

The drugs seized were "almost exclusively" crack cocaine, Berry said.

The downtown division is home to a third of the violent crime in the city, and about 30 per cent of the crime that occurs downtown takes place in that small geographic area.

Elderly man dies after struck by car

An elderly man is dead after he and another pedestrian were struck by a vehicle while crossing Calgary Trail at 48 Avenue just before noon on Wednesday.

Police said the man, in his 70s, died at the scene while a woman, also in her 70s, was taken to hospital in critical condition. The driver of the car, a man in his 80s, did not report any injuries. No charges were laid at press time. METRO

City consultation

Metered parking may cost more

Paying for parking at meters with your debit or credit card, or even your cellphone is a good idea, according to a council committee.

On Wednesday, city officials were asked to return in the fall with results of consultation with business areas, as well as detailed plans and costing of replacing the city's 3,295 meters. The system is already in use in Calgary.

It could mean parking after 6 p.m. may no longer be free, and could cost more in certain areas. METRO

Explosion delays emergency crews

Calgary emergency officials were scrambling after an explosion at the Shaw Communications building downtown on Wednesday.

Alberta Health Services computers, Calgary's 911 and 311 systems were left impaired, and there were widespread reports of ATMs and other banking facilities that were down. According to fire officials, an explosion occurred in the building's electrical room. METRO IN CALGARY

Edmonton's aggregate recycling facility is a noisy and potentially dangerous place.

But a simple new piece of safety equipment now being tested should make the job safer for its workers — if perhaps even a little noisier.

The new technology, unveiled by the city on Wednesday at the recycling facility, will alert heavy-equipment drivers when another employee is too close to the vehicle.

Developed by Toronto-based company Scan-Link, the Armour System employs radio frequency identification.

The receiving unit, mounted on the back of a piece of equipment, detects specially equipped hard hats and vests, which have thin transmitters sewn in.

When a worker gets within six metres of the vehicle, an alarm sounds in the cab.

That tells the driver to stop and either check out the dash-mounted camera installed in some vehicles, or get out and assess the situation.

"This is an extra step in getting guys home safely," said Blair Buchholtz, general supervisor of the city's aggregate recycling program, where concrete is crushed and recycled.

Jonathan Fava of Scan-Link said the technology "detects people and not objects" and is already in use in Fort McMurray.

A system costs about $3,200.

Historic recognition mulled for Edmonton's Church Street

Cluster. 12 churches line 96 Street from 105 to 111 avenues

heather.mcintyre@metronews.ca

Dotted with churches built between the turn of the century and the 1970s, Edmonton's 96 Street is a distinctive one.

And a council committee is discussing the possibility of designating the street a historic area from 105 to 111 avenues.

"Its title is well deserved with 12 churches on the street and another 10 within a few blocks," the city's sustainable-development manager, Peter Ohm, said at a meeting Wednesday.

Upon Mayor Stephen Mandel's request, city officials will return with a report on the cost of heritage designation, street-scaping possibilities, and ideas for a formal entrance and exit, as well as projects and initiatives already underway.

"I just think this is such a neat street," said Mandel.

Unofficial recognition

- 96 Street was honoured with a plaque from the Edmonton Historical Board in 2010.
- The area was also once listed by Ripley's Believe It or Not as having the largest concentration of churches in the world.

Such a move is a welcome one for the Friends of Church Street organization.

"It's high time Church Street was officially recognized for the historic gem it is within the city," said spokesperson Paula Kirman, noting the churches represent a variety of architectural styles and religious denominations.

The group also wants to promote 96 Street as a destination, perhaps through a Church Street Fair starting next summer. "There is just a certain atmosphere around here that is ... really worth taking some time and exploring," said Kirman.

The Queen of Martyrs Vietnamese Catholic Church sits on the corner of 108 Avenue and 96 Street. Churches along the stretch are visible in many shapes and sizes.

Public school board weeds out herbicide use for lawns

Ornamental lawns in front of and next to Edmonton Public Schools will no longer have herbicides applied in order to control weeds, such as dandelions. HEATHER MCINTYRE/METRO

The lawns at Edmonton Public Schools are now herbicide-free.

Effective this month, the school board will not be applying herbicides to limit weed growth.

"It's been discussed at board (meetings), and we've received comments from parents and from interested citizens encouraging us to ban the application of herbicides and pesticides that, in their mind, were unnecessary," John Nicoll, EPSB's managing director of facilities, said Wednesday.

"We've looked at that and decided that ... the application of poisons to control weeds for aesthetic purposes wasn't appropriate," he continued. "So we've moved to stop using them and to essentially ban, if you wish, the use of herbicides and pesticides."

Nicoll said though the use was minimal and always done by professionals following federal regulations, there is an argument that no level is safe.

"We certainly haven't had a lot of complaints," he said. "(But) we saw this as being an issue ... and if we didn't need to

Pest control

- Fertilizer will still be applied to the lawns, and turf quality and weed growth will be monitored over the summer.
- The district will still employ an exterminator to deal with rodents, if necessary, to avoid exposure to the hanta virus.

stance, then why should we?"

The new rule applies to ornamental lawns only, as the City of Edmonton looks after sports fields under its integrated pest-management strategy.

According to the city's website, herbicides are only applied when necessary and on less than 10 per cent of green spaces.

Councillors turned down an all-out pesticide ban earlier this year, opting to hear an update in two years on ongoing efforts to reduce usage.

Oilsands. Carbon capture, storage project approved

Regulators have conditionally approved the first proposal to pump greenhouse gas emissions from Alberta's oilsands deep into the ground.

Alberta's Energy Resources Conservation Board says it is in the public interest for the project just outside Edmonton to go ahead.

laughter to sick kids.

"I think it's wonderful to bring something like this to all the kids. Lots of them can't get out and go anywhere," said mom Lisa Lang, whose daughter is a patient at the Stollery. "It just brings smiles to everyone's face and lightens the mood and makes everything seem just a little bit better."

The Comedy Cares performance is meant to provide sick kids who can't leave the hospital a chance to see the acts that go on in Churchill Square during the festival.

The program not only brightens the smiles of the young audience, but of the artists as well.

"I know from personal experience that positivity and smiling can be a really good medicine. It's a good way to recuperate and forget about your troubles in that moment. It means everything," said dance performer Spandy Andy, who danced in bright patterned spandex for the kids.

The festival, now in its 28th year, has been doing Comedy Cares for 13. The street performer festival runs until Sunday.

Federal Public Safety Minister Vic Toews says predictions of an explosion in the prison population are not coming true.

Toews says the inmate population stood at just under 15,000 as of June 30 —

Toews says the numbers refute opposition suggestions the government's tough-on-crime laws will put more people behind bars.

The numbers, Toews added, will allow the government to spend almost $1.5 billion less by not building prisons.

Hazing death. Florida university president resigns amid scandal

The president of Florida A&M University resigned Wednesday, the same day the school was sued by parents of a drum major who died after being beaten by fellow band members in a hazing ritual. It was unclear if the two events were related.

Robert Champion's death put a spotlight on the controversial new-member rituals among some of the country's top college marching bands.

Champion died after fellow band members beat him aboard a bus parked outside a hotel following a football game in November against the school's archrival.

The school's trustees in June gave university president James Ammons a vote of no confidence after questioning his management of the band prior to Champion's death.

Champion's parents, Robert and Pamela, applauded Ammons' resignation, calling it part of a necessary "house cleaning" at the university.

Eleven band members face felony hazing charges and have pleaded not guilty. Their trial is scheduled to begin the same month as Ammons' resignation, in October.

Americans agree: 9-11 is TV event of past 50 years

Research. Despite consensus on No. 1, men and women differ on cultural impact of other memorable telecasts

The Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attack is by far the most memorable moment shared by television viewers during the past 50 years, a study released on Wednesday concluded.

The only thing that came close was President John F. Kennedy's assassination and its aftermath in 1963, but that was only for the people aged 55 and over who experienced those events as they happened instead of replayed as an historical artifact.

Sony Electronics and the Nielsen television research company collaborated on the survey. They ranked TV moments for their impact not just by asking people if they remembered watching them, but if they recalled where they watched it, who they were with and whether they talked

In this Sept. 11, 2001, photo, the twin towers of the World Trade Center burn behind the Empire State Building in New York. to other people about what they had seen. By that measure, the Sept. 11 tragedy was nearly twice as impactful as the second-ranked moment, which was the coverage of Hurricane Katrina in 2005.

Men and women agreed on the three most impactful television events — Sept. 11, Katrina and O.J. Simpson. After that, some interests diverged.

For example, women ranked the 1997 funeral of

Princess Diana as the fourth most memorable event, while men put that at No. 23. Young people ranked Barack Obama's Election Night speech in 2008 at No. 3, while older viewers ranked it 24. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wendy Cross, shown in Atlanta on Tuesday, is out $300,000 US after bank director Aubrey Lee Price allegedly fled the country with $17 million of his clients' money. DAVID GOLDMAN/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. banker allegedly slips away with $17M

After penning a rambling confession to financial regulators and writing notes to his family, a south Georgia bank director boarded a ferry in Florida and disappeared.

Now local and federal investigators are trying to determine whether Aubrey Lee Price killed himself, as his lengthy confession would have them believe, or whether he slipped away with $17 million US of investors' money. His family has told authorities they believe he's dead, but federal investigators aren't so sure and have offered $20,000 for information leading to his arrest.

"I created false statements, covered up my losses and deceived and hurt the very people

I was trying to help," says the confession letter investigators believe was written by Price.

Wendy Cross moved about $300,000 to Price's firm after a trusted financial adviser told her it would be a good investment. She met Price in person once. She described a very religious, soft-spoken man with a gentle demeanour and an air of kindness. "He should have won an Oscar for his performance that day," she said. "He has left a path of financial carnage."

Price left his home in south Georgia on June 16, telling his family he was headed to Guatemala for business, said Sgt. Aaron Pritchett of the Lowndes County Sheriff's Office.

'Save Lennox' fight fails as authorities put dog to sleep

Cause célèbre. Belfast pet inspired a legal battle and animal-rights protests on both sides of the Atlantic

A heated two-year campaign to save a pit bull-terrier-type dog in Northern Ireland came to an end Wednesday with the dog being "humanely put to sleep," according to a news release from the Belfast City Council.

Lennox's death was in "accordance with the Order of the County Court which was affirmed by the Northern Ireland Court of Appeal," city officials said in a statement.

The seven-year-old dog was seized by Belfast City Council dog wardens in May 2010. Experts suggested the dog represented a danger due to his unpredictability and should be put down.

Judges from Northern Ireland's most senior court rejected a bid by the dog's owner — Caroline Barnes — to overturn that decision supported by two lower courts. The 35-year-old woman was heartbroken when she heard the news of her dog's demise, adding that her teenage daughter Brooke had not even been given the chance to say a final farewell to the family pet.

said Romney was making a statement just by speaking to the oldest U.S. civil-rights group. His speech tried to show independent and swing voters that his campaign is inclusive.

"If equal opportunity in America were an accomplished fact, then a chronically bad economy would be equally bad for everyone," Romney told the annual meeting of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. "Instead, it's worse for African Americans in almost every way."

The economy is the main issue in this year's presidential race. The U.S. unemployment rate is stuck at 8.2 per cent (14.4 per cent among blacks).

Romney argued he's best suited to create more jobs.

Universal Studios. U.S. theme park sued after barring amputees from ride

Universal Studios Hollywood has been sued for barring amputees from a theme park roller-coaster.

The Los Angeles Times says the federal court lawsuit contends two men were kept off the Revenge of the Mummy ride in violation of the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Angel Castelan's forearms were amputated after an electrical accident as a child and Marvin Huezo's legs were amputated after a car accident.

Castelan says ride operators told him in 2010 that he couldn't ride the coaster because he doesn't have hands to grip the safety bars.

He returned to the theme park last year with Huezco and operators told them a new policy requires riders have at least one hand and one leg.

A theme-park spokesman declined comment on pending litigation against Universal Studios.

Shark that chased kayaker not a great white: Expert

The shark that caused a sensation when a photo of its fin slicing through the waters off Cape Cod behind a frightened kayaker was distributed worldwide might not have been a man-eating great white after all.

Massachusetts's top shark expert says the fin likely belonged to a harmless basking shark, a giant fish that feeds on nothing but plankton.

Greg Skomal of the Massachusetts Division of Marine Fisheries says the fin's shape and the depth at which the fish was swimming make him near positive it was a basking shark.

He says a basking shark's fin is more rounded at the top and basking sharks swim closer to the surface.

Of course, Skomal says, there really are great whites in Cape Cod waters.

Penn State. Paterno letter released one day ahead of pivotal sex-abuse report

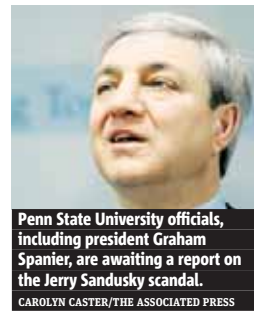

Joe Paterno defended his football program's integrity in a seven-month-old letter released Wednesday, a day ahead of a report that could forever mar his legacy.

In the letter, written shortly before his death from lung cancer in January and confirmed as legitimate by his family, Paterno rejected the notion that Jerry Sandusky's sexual abuse of boys amounted to a "football scandal" or in any way tarnished the accomplishments of his players or Penn State's reputation as a whole.

The results of Penn State's internal investigation into the Sandusky scandal are set to be released Thursday in a report that should answer many of the troubling questions swirling around one of the worst scandals in sports history.

A team led by former federal judge and FBI ex-director Louis Freeh interviewed hundreds of people to learn how the university responded to warning signs that its former assistant football coach — a man who helped Paterno win two national titles for a university that touted “success with honour” — was a serial child molester.

Eight months after Sandusky's arrest, it remains unclear how top university officials handled reports dating back at least 14 years that Sandusky was behaving inappropriately with boys he met through his charity, bringing them on campus and forcing them into sex acts.

Online vigilante group targets pedophiles

Calling them out. Netherlands chapter of collective announces plans to shut down child-porn sites, publish suspected users' names

KIERON MONKS

Metro World News

Hacker collective Anonymous has launched Operation PedoChat, an international campaign against online pedophiles, disabling child-abuse websites and publishing lists of suspected users.

In a video message posted this week on Anonymous Netherlands, a masked spokesman announced: "We Anonymous aim to diminish if not eradicate this plague from the Internet. For the good of our followers, for the good of mankind, and for our own enjoyment we shall expel from the Internet and systematically destroy any such boards that continue to operate."

There has been a rapid response from the group's international chapters and the statement has been translated into several languages. Websites such as boychat.org and boylovenews.com have been taken down. Thousands of suspected pedophiles are named on Anonymous websites.

The group is best known for attacks on major credit agencies and government websites, but has recently made pedophiles a focus. In 2011, the group hacked 40 websites and released the names of 1,500 suspected pedophiles as part of Operation Darknet, and published another list of names in June. Experts believe "Operation PedoChat" has taken the campaign to a new level. "This time Anonymous members seem much more set on doing damage as factions around the world rally behind the cause," commented tech blog ZDNet.

Despite a positive reaction on Twitter, victim-support groups are critical. "Cheap publicity-seeking can be counterproductive as there is a risk the pedophiles can go off-radar and disappear," Peter Saunders, CEO of the U.K. National Association for People Abused in Childhood (NAPAC), told Metro.

Frontier justice

- A spokesperson for the CEOP, the UK police department for child protection online, told Metro that Anonymous "may be compromising ongoing investigations" and that activists hacking illegal sites could be prosecuted themselves
- The spokesperson urged members of the public to share information with authorities, adding that "police are doing better in this area."

Miners' strike turns ugly

A woman grapples with riot police during a demonstration by Spanish coal miners Wednesday in Madrid. The miners had marched to Madrid in protest of industry subsidy cuts. Six demonstrators were hospitalized after police fired rubber bullets. Police made seven arrests, and two officers were injured.

Man accused of torturing, enslaving wife

Authorities say a U.S. man tortured and enslaved his wife for much of the past decade, forcing her to endure two pregnancies and childbirths in shackles.

A criminal complaint against Peter Lizon, 37, says one baby was stillborn and buried on the family farm in West Virginia. The other survived, but apparently has never had medical care.

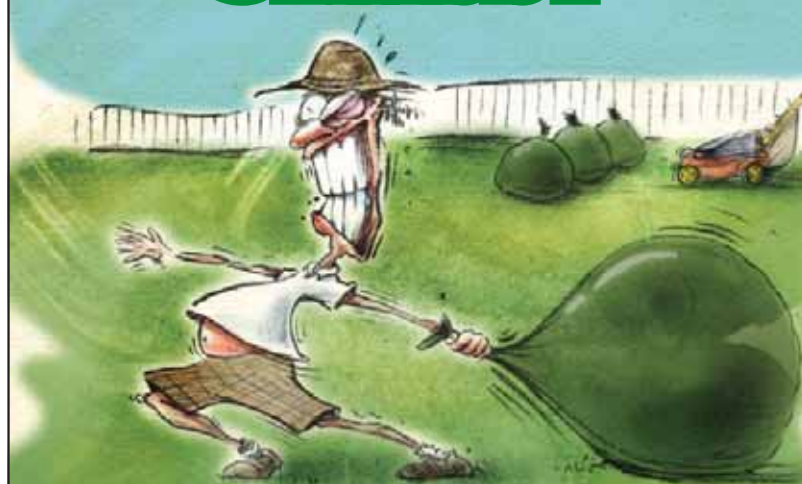

Chief Deputy Tony Boggs said 43-year-old Stephanie Lizon endured more suffering than virtually any domestic-violence victim he's seen.

The complaint says Stephanie Lizon was burned on her back and breasts with irons and frying pans and had her foot smashed with a piece of farm equipment.

Peter Lizon's attorney, Shawn Bayliss, said the allegations are not only untrue but "the fabrication of a fertile imagination or a feeble mind, one of the two."

Q2. Consumer spending up, but June figures suggest slowdown: Study

Consumer spending increased in the second quarter compared with a year ago but that figures for June point to a slowdown, according to a report by credit and debit-card processor Moneris Solutions.

Moneris said Wednesday that, overall, consumer spending increased 4.67 per cent year-over-year in the quarter, but that the smallest amount of growth, 3.72 per cent, occurred in June.

"While the Canadian economy continued to experience healthy growth in the second quarter of 2012, some signs point to a potential reduction in spending," said Jim Baumgartner, president and CEO, Moneris Solutions.

During the second quarter, the entertainment category saw the highest increase in overall spending in the quarter, up 9.43 per cent, while hotels and restaurants came in a close second, with growths of 6.75 and 6.41 per cent, respectively.

The specialty retail category also experienced strong growth, with stationery (6.62 per cent), florists (6.33 per cent) and pet shops (6.14 per cent) leading the increase in dollars spent.

Modest growth

2.74%

Apparel, a traditionally strong spending category for Canadians, experienced modest growth, with an increase of 2.74 per cent compared to the same period last year, Moneris said.

San Bernardino

Another California city goes bankrupt

As recently as last month, no city in California had opted for bankruptcy since 2008, and no U.S. city of more than 200,000 people had ever chosen that route.

The past two weeks have changed that, as the fiscal struggles faced by many American cities became too much for some to bear.

San Bernardino became the third California city in that small span to choose Chapter 9 bankruptcy protection with a city council vote on Tuesday night.

The southern California city of about 210,000 people will also become the second largest in the nation ever to file for bankruptcy.

Stockton, a northern city of nearly 300,000, became the biggest when it filed for Chapter 9 on June 28.

The much smaller city of Mammoth Lakes voted for bankruptcy July 3.

San Bernardino was facing a budget shortfall of $45.8 million US.

Cool new cash can't handle heat wave

Melting money. Polymer banknotes reportedly don't stand up to this summer's sweltering conditions

GRAHAM LANKTREE
Metro in Ottawa

Despite having more security features than you can shake a stick at, Canada's new polymer-based banknotes may have one weakness — the sweltering summer heat.

Brittney Halldorson, a teller at the Interior Savings Credit Union in Kelowna, says the new $50 and $100 bills are supposed to withstand boiling water, but she has seen cases where several of the bills melted.

"We have seen it a few times now where there have been either three to four, or five to 10 (bills) all melted together," she said.

Shrivelled bills were all one man found after he stored his money in a tin near a heater. CONTRIBUTED/CAMBRIDGE TIMES

In January, a report from Cambridge, Ont., noted that a man who stored his bills in a tin box near a heater returned the next day to find them shrivelled and melted together.

"We've put these notes through a lot of testing so that they stand up to our very hot summers and cold winters.

The notes perform as intended under the conditions," said Julie Girard, a currency spokesperson for the Bank of Canada.

Girard said that if anyone has a bill that has been damaged in any way, they can have the money replaced by filling out a form on the bank's website.

The bank's new $20 note is set for release this November, Girard said, and the remaining $5 and $10 denominations will be out before the end of 2013.

RIM's board grilled by shareholders

Research In Motion has taken many hits in recent months, but the composition of the BlackBerry maker's board of directors is a growing concern for some shareholders who are pushing for major changes sooner rather than later.

Vague assurances by chairwoman Barbara Stymiest of changes to come at the company's annual meeting this week left some, including activist shareholder Vic Alboini of Jaguar Financial, unsatisfied and calling for a makeover of the board now.

Alboini, who declared his hard stance at the shareholder gathering, showed no signs of letting up Wednesday saying chief executive Thorsten Heins was not suited for the job.

"I think he should be gone from the company. He was there for the last five years and he was part of the problem," Alboini said in an interview Wednesday.

Alboini has called for RIM to bring on more diverse board members, including one from Silicon Valley and two from New York, adding that the company could also benefit from additional non-Canadian members.

"You might also need somebody in Southeast Asia," he said, of a market that RIM has proclaimed of particular interest as it looks to push sales of its older BlackBerry smartphones in the short term.

"If there's some person that has worked for Apple, or Samsung and has super marketing experience, why not bring them on the board?"

Heins previously served as RIM's chief operating officer and took the reins of the company in January from co-CEOs Jim Balsillie and Mike Lazaridis, and quickly assured investors that RIM would stay the course with no layoffs in sight.

Now the company is in the midst of a massive layoff of about 5,000 employees in an effort to help save about $1 billion by the end of fiscal 2013.

I think there's a real substantial loss of credibility between Heins and the shareholders," Alboini said.

"You've got to be genuine as a leader; you've got to be authentic. There's nothing wrong with giving somebody a chance to fix (the company), but you've got to be honest about what happened in the past."

MAN VS. TOILET: THE ETERNAL STRUGGLE

HE SAYS...
John Mazerolle
metronews.ca/hesays

Today, I am a man.

I mean, I've been male for as long as I can remember. But I've never been a guy's guy. I like hockey because of the elegant flow. I like The Tragically Hip because of the delicate lyrics. And I like MMA because I enjoy watching jackasses in bars swinging their fists at the TV and yelling "kill him!" when the screen is showing two men hugging on the floor.

This lack of manhood made me uncertain when confronted with the challenge every true man must face: The clogged toilet.

I had to cross the Rubicon, and it wasn't flowing properly. It started as all clogs do, with the water rising towards the top of the bowl and me willing it to stop with a battle cry of "no, no, no!" and staring at it really hard.

Defeated

At one point the toilet ripped the plunger from my hands, broke it in two and spit it across the room, chuckling at me. The toilet will independently confirm this story.

and spit it across the room, chuckling at me. The toilet will independently confirm this story.

This was my darkest hour. So I did as many great warriors through history have done when all seemed lost. I turned to the sages. In this case, plumbers on YouTube with Louisiana accents who brag about their toilets the way other guys show off their sports cars.

Here I learned about my silver bullet, my Excalibur, my Star Trek technology that solves everything and is then forgotten in all future episodes.

I learned of the closet auger — a big snake that goes into the toilet, grabs the evil inside, and rips it out of the Hell-mouth. It seemed a little out of my depth, but I'd have used a whip and chair if they'd told me to.

I asked a few acquaintances at the local watering hole if they had an auger. Because I had not yet earned the respect of my fellow men, they all asked me the same thing: "Did you try a plunger?" as if I'd never heard of one. I assume they imagined me standing in the bowl and jumping up and down.

I ventured into a hardware store, chose my weapon, and pulled from the toilet the source of all evil: One sock. How a sock ended up in the toilet I cannot be sure, but I'm going to assume the toilet ate a previous owner.

So, now, I am a man. I faced my fears, the enemy without and within, and came away a hero. If you need your toilet unclogged, I will gird my loins and once again make the plunge — a man for all times.

I also understand women do this sort of thing without making a big fuss. If you're into that sort of thing.

Funny chipmunk gorges on nuts

This greedy, and indeed cheeky, chipmunk appeared to have bitten off more than he could chew when he got into a pile of peanuts.

The cute critter was part of a group of eight that had been given the nuts to share.

Metro chatted with Daniel Parent about his amusing photograph.

METRO

Daniel Parent, 51, is a photographer from Gatineau, Que. JIM CUMMING

Parent on his experience

- How did this happen?
"I was photographing a rare leucistic chipmunk in Ottawa, and was using the peanuts to distract the regular chipmunks," Parent explains. "There were about eight of them and some appeared to be quite greedy and stuffed their mouths, creating this amusing photo opportunity. I wasn't counting but I think some chipmunks easily got two peanuts into their cheeks, some of the more ambitious tried to get more. I sat about six metres away with my camera and waited for the chipmunks to come and get the peanuts."

- Chipmunk challenge.
"Chipmunks are quick and most just grabbed a peanut and left," Parent says. "It took some time for this chipmunk to stay still and try to put as many peanuts in its mouth. Then I had to be in the right position to capture a moment in time when the chipmunk was in sight and stayed moderately still."

Heritage Days. Festival to have more than 60 pavilions representing countries and cultures from around the world

edmonton@metronews.ca

There are only a few weeks to go until the 37th annual Heritage Days in Edmonton's Hawrelak Park and Executive Director Jack Little is excited, if not slightly apprehensive.

"I'm scared," he answers with a chuckle when asked how the final preparations are going. "To be honest, everything is organized and we're ready so I'm wondering what I forgot. What's going to bite me?"

An eight-year veteran with the event, Little will be just fine. He's seen and done it all. Right now, the behind-the-scenes focus is getting the new and returning countries prepared for the ever-growing festival.

"For the first time ever, Egypt is joining us. They are a bunch of great, energetic young people," says Little. "We paired them with some of our more experienced pavilions to mentor and prepare

Details

The festival runs noon to 9 p.m. on Aug. 4, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Aug. 5 and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Aug. 6.

- Donations to the Edmonton Food Bank are welcome.
- There is no public parking on-site so make arrangements.
- Admission to the event is free but tickets are required to sample the food and are available from Servus Credit Unions, Save on Foods, and at tixonthesquare.ca.

them. The whole goal is for them to hear tips on what to do or not to do."

This year, more than 60 pavilions will represent cultures and countries from all over the globe. "Each pavilion has two major components. One is food, of course. The other is artifacts, which can be anything made in that country, many of which are for sale," explains Little, adding that Scandinavia is bringing a Viking boat to distinguish themselves this year. "There is also a stage for neighbouring pavilions to share in order to put on performances native to their country."

The entire festival, including participating countries and admin support for Heritage Days, is run by more than 1,000 volunteers, and according to Little, "That's the reason Heritage Days are so successful year after year."

Admission to the August 4 to 6 event is free but tickets are required to sample the food and are available from Servus Credit Unions, Save on Foods, and at tixonthesquare.ca.

Last weekend, pop queen Katy Perry got the documentary treatment with the opening of Katy Perry: Part of Me. Although more suggestive than her Disney Channel counterparts (The Jonas Brothers, Miley Cyrus/Hannah Montana) or Justin Bieber, Perry joins the ranks of musicians popular with tweens and teens to be sanctified on the silver screen through a biopic/documentary. Earplugs in place, we take a look at these behind-the-scenes tales of a pop sensation's life on the road.

Music biopics fit for a tween

Hannah Montana & Miley Cyrus: Best of Both Worlds Concert Tour (2008)

Most ridiculous part: A father with two daughters wears a platinum Hannah Montana wig and says, "I didn't expect so much screaming." A 14-second screaming montage follows.

Song that's just as good or better than the original: Miley Cyrus (as herself) performs The Best of Both Worlds — the theme to her TV show — along with her alter ego, Hannah Montana, who is digitally rendered on a large screen. It's surprisingly moving.

Part where the artist seems most human: When Miley Cyrus is dropped during a stunt at one of the shows and voices her concern later in practice, the viewer realizes that at the start of her Best of Both Worlds Tour, Cyrus was only a 14-year-old girl on a 54-city tour of the U.S.

Jonas Brothers: The 3D Concert Experience (2009)

Most ridiculous part: In the opening scene, the band's van gets stuck in traffic on the way to the Today show in New York City. Within seconds, the JoBros are mobbed by a mass of screaming teenage girls.

Song that's just as good or better than the original: During That's Just the Way We Roll, the first live song in the film, the band is aided by an orchestra and some intense pyrotechnics in front of a sold-out crowd.

Part where the artist seems most human: After bodyguard "Big Rob" Feggans wakes up the brothers at 4:30 a.m., they eat breakfast together in their hotel room. Joe Jonas starts to shake the table while yelling, "Earthquake!" It initiates some good-natured ribbing among the three brothers.

Justin Bieber: Never Say Never (2011)

Most ridiculous part: Bieber grew up playing drums, and in a home video (in which he wears his trademark backwards fitted hat), he throws down a sick beat.

Song that's just as good or better than the original: When he performs One Less Lonely Girl, Bieber's staff brings one girl from the crowd onstage. Once in front of the crowd, the Biebs serenades the girl while gently caressing her. At the end, he gives her a bouquet of flowers. Aww.

Part where the artist seems most human: Home footage seems to serve as the harbinger of Bieber's musical career — as a toddler he effortlessly lays down a beat on a conga drum and strums a guitar that is much too large for his tiny frame.

Katy Perry: Part of Me (2012)

Most ridiculous part: Katy Perry's older sister makes an appearance as Perry's nerdy alter ego, Kathy Beth Terry — complete with headgear and braces — from the video for Last Friday Night (T.G.I.F.).

Song that's just as good or better than the original: Katy Perry runs through numerous costume changes throughout a performance of Hot N Cold. This occurs on a colourful, Candy Land-esque stage that might give you a cavity just by looking at it.

Part where the artist seems most human: Perry struggles with the decision to perform or cancel a gig in front of her largest crowd in Brazil while in the midst of a breakdown due to her divorce.

Jesse Metcalfe as Christopher Ewing, left, and Josh Henderson as John Ross Ewing in a scene from Dallas. HANDOUT

Dallas blurring line between what is right and wrong

Nuanced. Actor who plays adopted son on hit remake born in same year original premiered

Intrigue

As dramatic, scandalous as ever

Just three weeks into its 10-episode summer run, word came that Dallas had notched enough of a following to warrant a second season.

So far, the Ewing clan has rolled out its fair share of drama: Christopher has just learned his new bride (Julie Gonzalo) and her brother are gold-diggers, greedy cousin John Ross (Josh Henderson) is trapped in a deal rapidly heading south, Bobby just learned JR has hoodwinked him out of protecting the future of Southfork, while Bobby's wife Ann (Brenda Strong) appears to be hiding a dark past of her own. Dallas airs Wednesdays on Bravo.

for another option hopefully the new Dallas can fill that void," says Metcalfe, who plays adopted son Christopher Ewing alongside returning originals Patrick Duffy as the principled Bobby and Larry Hagman as the scheming JR.

Metcalfe, whose character continues to pine for his first love Elena (Jordana Brewster), says he likes that most of the characters here are not so black-and-white.

"There's a lot more grey area there, you know. The line between right and wrong, and good and evil is a little less defined," says Metcalfe, whose character is pushing the family business into green energy initiatives.

Metcalfe was born in 1978 — the year the original series premiered — and turned to old episodes of the series to get to know the work of his new co-stars, Duffy, Hagman and Linda Gray (who returns as a more polished, independent Sue Ellen).

Metcalfe says it was important to him to get a sense of tone, a flavour for what the show is really all about.

"In a lot of ways, it's the same show — the themes that were at the heart of the original series are very much the same themes running through the new series," he says. "It's about ambition, greed, loyalty and betrayal, it's about the interpersonal relationships in this dysfunctional family."

He notes that Dallas basically films on a working ranch filled with horses and cattle. It's also a favourite tour destination for hardcore followers of the original series who occasionally turn up while shooting takes place.

"A lot of times you'll be shooting a scene with an audience," says Metcalfe. "I'm hoping that the new series takes hold just as much as the original one and hopefully we can continue in the tradition of the original series and have another television phenomenon on our hands."

Katie Holmes went to Cruise's ex-wife for advice on divorce

Katie Holmes reportedly had some high-profile sounding boards as she planned her exit from her marriage to Tom Cruise — including Cruise's second ex-wife, Nicole Kidman, according to Us Weekly. "They've spoken over the last few weeks," a source says. "Nicole has been supportive, saying she's been through it too and to hang in there. Nicole offered her support and help."

The two first became acquainted when Holmes married Cruise in 2006.

"She has been a private friend not many people know about," the source explains.

So how did Holmes reach out to Kidman on the sly? The L.A. Times reports that Holmes used a disposable cell phone provided by a friend to plot her divorce escape.

Travis Barker still struggles with flying after famous crash

THE WORD
Monica Weymouth
scene@metronews.ca

Four years after surviving a deadly plane crash, Travis Barker is still understandably hesitant to fly, and his travel restrictions are making the latest Blink 182 tour a little difficult.

"This will be the big tour that supports the album in Europe. Mind you, I'm not flying, so it's hard to say what the band could do or what its potential is, because I can't really get everywhere," the drummer tells Red Bulletin magazine.

Barker is, however, planning to give it another go if the tour takes them down under.

"I'm contemplating getting knocked out and getting on a plane to Australia. I want to overcome that eventually," he continues. "When I do, I think it's going to be Qantas. They never had a crash, never had a fatality — knock on wood. It's something I want to overcome."

We salute you, Travis. Take care and treat yourself to some premium tranquilizers — you could totally afford to hire Ira Glass to talk about baby kangaroos for the entire 20 hours.

Aeropostale taps Chloe Moretz as its model and style curator

At age 15, actress Chloe Grace Moretz is already an ambassador. It's for Aeropostale, the youthful fashion brand, and it's a job that's likely to come with some clout and influence — especially with teenage shoppers. Moretz will be featured in advertisements through next spring, largely wearing clothing she's selected and styled herself. She will also curate collections in-store and online. "I get my own section, I got to pull my own clothes. Girls can go and see what I love and what I wear in the shoots. It's a way for me to be in touch with girls," Moretz said in a recent phone interview. Moretz starred in Hugo and The Amityville Horror and has the title role in the upcoming remake of the horror classic Carrie.

Attention men, it's about to get loud

Trend alert. With a riot of hot colours, prints and metallics, the spring/summer '13 men's wear shows are not for the shy

life@metronews.ca

Seemingly, these days, men are more sartorially daring and, boy, are they going to need to be, judging by the menagerie of prints on offer. Dolce and Gabbana looked to a Sicily of old, with images of Sicilian barrows, puppets ('pupi') and temples, all desirably nostalgic. In contrast, Dries Van Noten combined camouflage and leopard — disguise or defence?

Whatever the meaning is, you won't be overlooked in these. Kenzo continued the camo trope with a look to the jungle. That's the urban jungle with abstracted leopard print and tiger stripes of baggy shorts and boxy tees — a key trend for the season.

Metallics: feel the steel

Think of metallics and you're probably picturing a man in a tin foil robot suit. Lanvin's monochromes were broken up with futuristic, cyborgesque tailoring, shorts and a rather splendid pea coat, all accentuated by the dead-eyed models. But it was Versace who ramped it up with a homoerotic gladiatorial extravaganza. The outerwear and accessories appeared as a campy Mad Max-Matrix hybrid. Burberry took a break from the sobriety of its recent shows by further continuing the sci-fi motif, with models resembling Blade Runner-esque replicants with ice blue shirts and fuchsia trenches.

Colours are hotting up

This season a pop of colour has progressed, thanks to the likes of Gucci who cut tailoring among other pieces in leaf green, mustard yellow and reds that ran the gamut. Ghostly? No, captivating. Similarly red, the most evocative of colours was used to

Keep cool with haute home decor

Blocking the sunlight and controlling air flow are two ways to keep your space feeling cooler this summer. HUNTER DOUGLAS

Beat the heat. When the temperature rises, stay fresh and cold with these sleek, simple cooling devices

DESIGN CENTRE
Karl Lohnes
home@metronews.ca

With record-breaking temperatures this summer and the thermometer expected to keep rising throughout most of the country this week, it's important to not only look cool, but to keep your home cool too.

Here are a few homeowner-friendly products that will keep you cool — and keep your home looking chic. None require major installation, and all are cool-looking (and feeling!) and well worth the money.

Cool the air

Spot cooling with a portable air conditioner is a great way to save energy by only cooling the areas of your home that you use on a regular basis. The DeLonghi Pinguino portable air conditioner has handles and castors for easy portability. Its 9000 BTUs can cool up to 350 square feet, and the built-in fan, dehumidifier with silent operation and remote control will be your climate-control friend year-round.

Portable air conditioners allow for spot cooling when air conditioners can't be installed. DeLonghi Pinguino Portable 9000, $500, Delonghi.ca

Move the air

A ceiling fan can help reduce scorching temperatures by six to 10 per cent and costs little to run. In the winter it can help to improve air circulation and distribute heat that rises toward ceilings and in corners of a room, helping to get rid of condensation on windows. The Modern Fan Company's Pensi aluminum ceiling fan (with a fabulous discrete light) boasts an ultra-modern sleek look for the minimalist decorator.

The Pensi ceiling fan keeps you cool with a clean, industrial look. $480, ModernFan.com

Choose your breeze

Tabletop fans bring a cool breeze into warm spots at night and circulate the air during the day. The Dyson Air Multiplier AM01 fan works without blades, which means air isn't "chopped," creating that annoying buffering sound. The Air Multiplier technology amplifies surrounding air and creates an uninterrupted stream of air. It's not only efficient, but beautifully sculptural too.

Portable fans can cool a room but add sculptural interest. Air Multiplier M01 fan, $400, DysonCanada.ca

Block the heat

The beauty of window coverings is that they give you full control of light and keep heat out in the summer. Hunter Douglas Architella Honeycomb Shades not only offer up modern style, but also energy efficiency — three air pockets within the honeycomb provide an R-value of up to 7.75 (a 4 R-value will prevent up to 75 per cent heat or cold loss through a window) and will insulate your window from the hot rays hitting the windows.

Window shades keep the heat out in summer and the cold out in winter. Architella Honeycomb Shades, starting at $250, Hunter-Douglas.ca

Ironing

Beat linen woes with this combo

During the summer months, I face the usual dilemma of whether or not I should iron my summer linen wardrobe. If I iron it, what's the best way to do this as easily and effortlessly as possible?

Whether you should iron your linen is a personal fashion statement. But I can help you get rid of the wrinkles.

In order to iron linen successfully, you need the clothing to be humid combined with the heat of a hot iron. Without both you can never iron successfully.

Why humidity? Won't a hot iron get rid of the wrinkles? Surprisingly, no.

Most people hate ironing because they don't have good results. They iron with heat but no humidity and get frustrated when the wrinkles don't disappear. Steam created when you iron clothing with a combination of humidity and heat allows the linen fibres to relax and get rid of the wrinkles.

When ironing you need a combination of heat and humidity. ISTOCK IMAGES

Whimsical, wind-powered whirligigs an engineering feat

Folk art. Vision of one man brings outsider art into the public eye

The eccentric vision of a self-taught North Carolina artist famed for his whirligigs is getting an overhaul that's as much about engineering as it is about art.

Just as more traditional conservators might study an artist's canvas and paints, a 16-member team is restoring about 30 whirligigs — wind-driven creations constructed from motor fans, cotton spindles and other recycled parts — that stand as high as 50 feet.

Vollis Simpson built the contraptions over the years. But at 93, his knees no longer allow him to maintain his creations.

With the help of approximately $2 million in grants and donations, a few organizations in nearby Wilson are building the Vollis Simpson Whirligig Park. It's scheduled to open in November 2013. Between now and then, the team is sprucing up whirligigs that have spent decades in the elements, including more than a few hurricanes.

"He made them to last his lifetime, and they basically have," said Danny Price, a retired Bridgestone tire plant worker who's now the whirligig mechanical foreman. "So our next step is to make them last generations."

The whirligigs — some weighing as much as 3 tons with hundreds of moving parts — are folk art or outsider art, works created by someone without a formal background in art.

The whirligigs have captured attention across the U.S. Buyers include a shopping centre in Albuquerque, the American Visionary Art Museum in Baltimore and the American Folk Art Museum in New York City. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Steps to stop that blackspot

If it's your rose bush rather than your dog that you're calling "Spot," then it's time for action.

And getting rid of blackspot — the disease that's marring your roses — need not mean dowsing the plant with chemicals.

First get to know the enemy: Diplocarpon rosae, a fungus feared by rosarians almost everywhere. Those black spots, if you look closely, have fringed edges and black pimples at their centre to distinguish them from other possible leaf-spotting diseases. Infected leaves soon yellow, then drop, meaning less energy for the bush which, in turn, means fewer flowers and sometimes the death of the plant.

Over the almost 200 years that the disease has been known, its causal fungus has paraded under about 25 different scientific names. Still, its lifecycle is simple.

A year in the life of blackspot disease

Blackspot disease spent the winter mostly in infected leaves that fell to the ground. Spring warmth and rain awakened the fungus to shoot spores up into the rose bush and infect young, unfolding leaves.

Moisture was needed to get those spores moving, and then the leaves had to stay moist for a few hours before infection could set in.

Once spores get up into the bush in spring, infection can continue through the summer as spores hopscotch from leaf to leaf. Spores are released and get footholds only when moisture is present for enough time.

Controlling blackspot on rose bushes doesn't require harsh chemicals.

Vollis Simpson

'Just an old country boy'

About 20 miles away from the warehouse where the team mulls over Simpson's work, Simpson himself sits in a rickety chair, surrounded by scrap metal and smaller whirlingigs, suitable for family yards and tabletops.

Several of his larger whirlingigs still stand there; a few will remain after the park is built, including one that will stay as a gift to the community.

Simpson is conflicted about the park — he knows he can no longer care for the whirlingigs but he's lonesome without them.

"Well, I kind of hate to see them go," he said. "I've looked at them for 50 or 60 years."

He says he's excited about the park, but is concerned about the opening date that's more than a year away. "I just hope I live to see it."

To the people restoring the whirlingigs, Simpson is both artist and engineer. But Simpson says he doesn't consider himself an artist.

"But everybody says I am," he said. "I'm just an old country boy."

Prevention is the first step

Blackspot needs moisture to take hold, so one way to control it is to plant rose bushes where they will dry off quickly from dew and rain — in full sunlight (which roses need for best flowering anyway), and away from walls or dense shrubs where air can stagnate.

This also means pruning away enough stems that remaining ones can bathe in drying light and air. And wet the ground, not the leaves, when watering and avoid working among the bushes when they are wet.

Gathering up and composting the leaves the bush drops in autumn can lessen the amount of disease inoculum the following spring. Even better is to mulch the ground sometime between late autumn and late winter, each year leaving old mulch in place as you pile on new. Besides mulch's usual benefits, in this case it also acts as a barrier to keep that first batch of spores from the leaves.

Plan before planting

Roses vary in susceptibility to blackspot, and the easiest way to deal with it is to grow a plant that won't get diseased in the first place.

Among hybrid teas there are varieties that resist blackspot, such as Tropicana, Mister Lincoln, Pink Peace, Carefree Beauty and Keepsake. Some grandiflora and floribunda types that resist blackspot include Queen Elizabeth, Sonia, Betty Prior and Bonica.

Don't put too much stock in blackspot resistance, though, because there are a number of races of the blackspot fungus, so a variety may be resistant in one locale but not in another.

More reliable resistance is found among so-called species and shrub roses. Blackspot usually doesn't cause problems with Father Hugo's Rose, rugosa roses, and some of the newer varieties of shrub and landscape roses.

Spray as a last resort

If you already have roses in the ground and don't want to replace them, they have a relatively good site, and you prune and mulch them, you could still be calling your rose bush Spot.

Even then, before you reach for some highly toxic pesticide, try a more benign alternative: baking soda, that universal cure for everything from dirty dishpans to smelly refrigerators.

Mix a tablespoon and a half, along with either a few drops of dish detergent or two tablespoons of summer oil (also called horticultural oil) per gallon of water and spray weekly. For some gardeners, this spray makes Spot a dog's name again.

Landscape for less with these easy backyard projects

DIY. Transform your outdoor space into a beautiful garden retreat without breaking the bank

The summer months encourage outdoor living and entertaining, but landscaping can be a costly project to take on. Sweat Equity host Amy Matthews helps homeowners tackle projects themselves and shares techniques to save money along the way.

Amazing arbor

Create a dramatic entrance to your garden with an arbor. These add height to landscaping and provide a place for flowering vines such as wisteria or clematis to grow, resulting in a crown of flowers.

Arbors are a great alternative to a full pergola or gazebo as they require substantially less material, which results in lower costs.

There are also various styles to suit different design tastes such as arched garden arbors or those with flat tops. Some homeowners prefer to let arbors stand alone without flowers so their architectural beauty takes the spotlight.

Build a rock garden

Rock gardens can be used in areas that prove difficult for many plants to grow, such as on dry soil surfaces. This results in a lower expense over the long run as you won't need to replace greenery that has not survived or spend your time and money keeping those flowers blooming.

Garden centres provide a variety of rock sizes and colours — everything from flagstones to small pea stones to large boulders. Selecting rocks with similar colour hues is a good starting point; choose tones that complement the colours of your home or landscaping.

Small cacti make great additions to rock gardens since they require little maintenance. To avoid weeding, create a weed barrier under the rocks by laying down landscaping fabric before getting started.

Make your own lighting

Instead of purchasing expensive outdoor lighting and taking time to wire your yard with the appropriate outlets, consider making your own.

A charming DIY light source is to fill mason jars with river stones and a tea light. Or use different colours of sand in place of river stones for more pizzazz. Your new lighting can either hang on hooks around a deck or gazebo or be placed along a garden path to give it an enchanting evening glow.

Hot decor for summer shindigs

Cocktail parties.

From South Beach serveware to rustic-rock centrepieces, there's tons of goods to make your soiree a success

Ah, summer. There's something about these warm, languid days that makes many of us want to throw together a little gathering.

Picking a cocktail party theme makes planning the menu and decor more fun. Here are just a few to get your creative wheels turning. Invite your favourite people, add some fairy lights and lanterns, and get the party started.

'60s South Beach

Showtime's new Magic City TV series, set in mid-century Miami, is inspiration for party decor and music with a retro vibe, served with Cuban-influenced canapes.

At Pottery Barn, you'll find a collection of melamine plates, serveware and coordinating linens in muted vintage tropical prints.

Palm-leaf-patterned ceramic serveware in deep blues and olive greens are part of Cindy Crawford Style's Eden collection at JC Penney.

And even if you're land-bound, craft stores offer shells, coral and starfish you can add to baskets and trays filled with store-bought play sand to create table decor. Or place one dramatic tropical flower or frond in a tall slim vase.

Serve appetizers with Latin flair, such as Cuban shrimp skewers, mini empanadas and spicy popcorn. Play the Rat Pack music that was popular in the era at Miami's big hotels — Frank Sinatra, Ella Fitzgerald, Sammy Davis Jr.

Cocktails in Cortona

You may not be under the Tuscan sun this summer, but you can still set a similar scene for your guests.

Fill a large glass vase with water, lemons and sunflowers. Or take a cue from London-based stylist Sania Pell and fill clear vessels with untrimmed vegetables such as radishes, celery and carrots for a rustic look.

Pottery Barn has melamine versions of the iconic Talavera pottery, while Williams-Sonoma has unbreakable dishware in Mediterranean patterns.

Small bites are the way to go with any cocktail party; they're easy for guests to handle, and your food trays will be easier to refresh. For this one, consider tiny tomato tarts, a sampler of Italian ices, and shot glasses filled with cold soups like cucumber dill or tomato basil.

Tokyo terrace

A city balcony is the perfect place for a chic, Asian-inspired cocktail party. Set up the Zen zone with baby conifer pots or moss nestled into interesting dishes. Wrap votives in origami paper.

Branchhome.com has Wasara's elegant bamboo and sugarcane-fiber disposable tableware that's great looking and eco-friendly.

CB2's Format orange enamel tray and an array of colourful clothes-pin-style chopsticks would be stylish options.

Crabcakes, salmon satays and melon ball lollipops, along with bowls of Japanese crackers and wasabi nuts, will satisfy snacking guests.

Cabin fever

Bring the woodsy cabin vibe home to the city or suburbia with a few playful accessories and a comfort food menu. A few inexpensive bandanas, a plaid blanket or an old quilt make colourful table coverings.

Homegoods has a canoe-shaped condiment server complete with "paddle" spoons. You'll find patchwork-patterned acrylic plates here too, as well as coordinating drink pitchers and utensils. Set out mini sliders, roasted vegetable skewers and paper cups filled with seasoned fries.

Returners running away with accolades through Week 2

CFL. Return game turns heads with TD outburst in opening two weeks

Mike Benevides is 2-0 as a CFL head coach, thanks to the B.C. Lions special teams.

The defending Grey Cup champions haven't skipped a beat with their rookie head coach. But Benevides says the Lions wouldn't be undefeated if not for the play of Tim Brown, the CFL's top punt returner this season.

"There's no way we would've won the last two games without our special teams in terms of our return game," the Toronto native said. "For us, it was a huge part of the wins."

The play of Brown and other returners was indeed special last weekend as three punts and a missed field goal were taken back for touchdowns. That gives the CFL four special-teams TDs so far, which is already half of last year's total.

Winnipeg's Demond Washington had the first return TD, taking a punt back 82 yards in a 41-30 loss to Montreal on Friday night. In the nightcap, Brown had an 81-yard punt return for a touchdown in B.C.'s

B.C.'s Tim Brown celebrates a touchdown against Hamilton last Friday in Vancouver. DARRYL DYCK/THE CANADIAN PRESS

39-36 home win over Hamilton, a game that also saw Chris Williams of the Tiger-Cats score on a 67-yard punt return.

On Saturday, Calgary's Larry Taylor returned a missed field goal 125 yards for a touchdown in a 39-36 road loss to Toronto.

"That (four return TDs the same weekend) is probably a surprise when you look at it but overall you can see why," Benevides said. "It's one of those things that's exciting for the fans and is a huge part of the CFL."

Hamilton rookie head coach George Cortez agreed. Well, sort of.

"I don't think anybody in the league is happy about the state of their special teams," Cortez told reporters Tuesday. "Let me rephrase that."

"Everybody is happy with the return game and nobody is happy with their coverage game."

Brown certainly gave Benevides plenty to smile about Friday with six punt returns for 157 yards and seven kickoff returns for 139 yards. He also had a 59-yard punt return in B.C.'s season-opening 33-16 home victory over Winnipeg.

However, that paled in comparison to the club-record 441 all-purpose yards Taylor rolled up against Toronto, second only in CFL history to the 474-yard performance Winnipeg's Albert Johnson III had in 2000. Calgary's Taylor had eight kickoff returns for 222 yards, two missed field goal returns for 136 yards and two punt returns for 70 yards in addition to a 13-yard catch.

Benevides, a former special-teams coach, says return teams usually have the early advantage on cover squads.

"At this point in time it's Week 2, there's still a feel-out process in terms of the personnel on rosters and where guys play on certain positions," he said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Countering the return

B.C. is in Regina on Saturday to face the unbeaten Roughriders, and coach Mike Benevides expects Saskatchewan's cover teams to have some different wrinkles to contain Tim Brown.

- As a result, the Lions' special teams will feature their own adjustments.
- "It's cat and mouse, it's always the chess match," Benevides said. "Obviously the pieces on the cover teams will continue to change and make it tough."

NBA. Nash still surprised to be joining the Lakers

Steve Nash knew the scene was more than a bit surreal when he stood in the Los Angeles Lakers' training complex, grinning and holding up a gold No. 10 jersey with his name on the back.

"Being here right now is something I never foresaw," Nash said Wednesday. "That (jersey) was a major hurdle for me just to get over visually as a player."

The two-time MVP will get used to it. After spending the past 16 years trying to beat L.A. in Phoenix and Dallas, Nash is switching teams to chase NBA titles alongside Kobe Bryant.

Horoscope

♈ Aries | March 21 - April 20.

With Mars, your ruling planet, moving through the partnership sector of your chart, this is the perfect time to assess your relationships.

♉ Taurus | April 21 - May 21.

Your capacity for hard work is legendary but you could be tempted to take on too many tasks over the next 24 hours. While your energy may be unlimited, your time is not.

♊ Gemini | May 22 - June 20.

Throw yourself into a creative activity and forget about personal problems. Working hard on projects that you enjoy will be therapeutic.

♋ Cancer | June 21 - July 22.

You need to get over your sense of injustice and stand far enough back to see the big picture. Then you will realize that life is a lot fairer than you have given it credit for.

♌ Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22.

Forget about work for the next 24 hours and do something that is purely for fun. If you can arrange it, a trip away from your usual environment will do you the world of good.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22.

You may want to make a good impression on certain people but don't do anything you might later regret. Success is important, of course, but so is your sense of integrity.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22.

All the things that you should have done but never got around to are possible for you now. Make use of Mars in your sign to motivate yourself to do something spectacular.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21.

There will be a number of distractions today and it is quite likely that you will get frustrated at not being able to focus on one thing at a time.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec. 21.

Even if you are a rare Sagittarius who prefers their own company, you will want to be involved in a group activity of some sort today.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan 20.

You may be determined to prove you have what it takes, but you must also accept there are forces in the world that can't be defeated.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb 18.

Mars in your fellow Air sign of Libra means there is no excuse for moaning that you don't get the breaks. Instead of waiting for luck to come your way, go out and grab it.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20.

Others will be eager to involve you in their schemes, but be on your guard. Yes, there is money to be made, but you won't get something for nothing. SALLY BROMPTON
